

Bookmobile Summer Schedule Set Up To Start June 6

Summer schedule for Pickaway County Bookmobile will begin June 6 with the South Bloomfield run, according to Mrs. Enid Denham, librarian. A busy Summer is expected. From its initial run in January, the use and popularity of the "library on wheels" has increased steadily. In February, 5,395 books were withdrawn from the truck alone, and in the following month 7,514 were borrowed.

FAIR, COOLER
Fair and cooler tonight. Wednesday fair and cool. High, 77; Low, 58; at 8 a. m., 65. Year ago, High, 80; Low, 51. Sunrise, 5:09 a. m.; Sunset, 7:48 p. m. Precipitation, .05 in. River, 3.88 ft.

"About one sixth of these were non-fiction, the most popular group in this class being biographies. Since the books were shelved by grade, the children were able to make their choice more readily," Mrs. Denham said, adding: "Fairy tales and non-fiction were also shelved in their separate classes and these, too, proved very popular. There was a great deal of exchanging among pals for a book that was most in demand."

Among popular subjects for all ages, the librarian listed horses first, followed by westerns, animal stories and sports stories for girls or boys.

"Many wanted mysteries. Some asked for gory horror stories not stocked among children's literature," she said.

"Among the adults we had requests for books on homemaking, recipes for making medicines from oils, books on bird-houses, electro-plating, stamp and coin catalogue, books on costumeing, educational, psychology and antiques," she went on.

Mrs. Denham said that in some of the classes the books were pooled, giving all children of each class an opportunity to read them.

Occasionally books would be renewed for an extra two-week period "so that uncle, brother, or even mother might read them also. Our circulation figures do not tell the whole story."

The bookmobile is operated by Weldon Owens, driver; Mrs. Denham, librarian; Miss Wilmina Phebus, Miss Jessie Cummings, Mrs. Barton Deming and Mrs. Loren Pace, assistant librarians.

Tentative schedule for the Summer follows:

From June 6 through June 20 South Bloomfield (at the school), 9:30 a. m. to 10:15 a. m.; Ashville, 10:30 a. m. to 11:30 a. m.; Ashville school, 12:15 p. m. to 1:15 p. m.; Duval, 1:30 p. m. to 2 p. m.; Madison, 2:15 p. m. to 2:45 p. m.

From June 7 through June 21 Washington Township school, 9:15 a. m. to 9:30 a. m.; Children's Home, 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m.; Ringgold, 11:50 a. m. to 12:10 p. m.; Walnut school, 1 p. m. to 1:15 p. m.

From June 8 through June 22 Pickaway school, 9:15 a. m. to 9:30 a. m.; Meade, 9:45 a. m. to 10 a. m.; Whisler, 10:15 a. m. to 11:15 a. m.; Stringtown, 1 p. m. to 1:15 p. m.; Saltcreek, 1:30 p. m. to 2 p. m.; Tarlton, 2:10 p. m. to 3:10 p. m.

From June 13 through June 27 Orient, 9:30 a. m. to 10:15 a. m.; State Farm, 10:30 a. m. to 11:45 a. m.; Derby, 12:45 p. m. to 1:15 p. m.; Commercial Point, 1:30 p. m. to 2 p. m.

From June 14 through June 28 Wayne, 9:15 a. m. to 9:30 a. m.; Williamsport, 10 a. m. to 11 a. m.; New Holland 12:30 p. m. to 1:30 p. m.; Atlanta, 2 p. m. to 2:30 p. m.

From June 15 through June 29 Pherson, 9:30 a. m. to 9:45 a. m.

Tax Bill Loses Sales Measure Dies In Panel

COLUMBUS, May 24—A one-minute session of the senate taxation committee may shorten the Ohio legislative session by weeks or months.

The committee met after last night's senate session, resumed a six-day old rollcall, and finally defeated the Guthrie gross receipts tax bill, which was supposed to produce an additional $30 million a year annually in state revenue to finance the "Youngstown plan" of more aid to schools and local governments.

THE VOTE was five for the bill with four against, with Sen. Edward Welsh (D-Dayton) responding "not voting" when his name was called for the eighth time since last Wednesday.

Committee Chairman Nicholas Bernard (D-Youngstown) then gave up. Bowing his head in apparent resignation, he announced that the 5-4 vote failed to produce the necessary six-vote majority needed and that the bill was "defeated in committee."

Unless the committee reconsiders its action—which is unlikely—the "Youngstown plan" probably will collapse for lack of adequate financing.

More will be known today as the house taxation group on two senate-approved planks in the plan.

One would give the cities a flat 15 percent of the sales tax—or about $18 million a year instead of the present flat $12 million—while the other would change the method of distributing the $15 million collected each year in intangibles taxes.

The senate, which last night sidestepped a vote on the three-year driver's license bill until today, also takes up at this afternoon's session the agreed bill on increases in workmen's compensation which has been passed by the house.

THE HOUSE takes up a bill to abolish capital punishment. Last night the house passed, 114-1, the Reider bill to place a ten-phone limit on rural party lines after Jan. 1, 1952.

The house also passed, 80-32, a measure to require that justices

Truman Aides Say Tax Boost Deal Abandoned

WASHINGTON, May 24—President Truman's congressional leaders indicated today that the administration has abandoned efforts to put through a $4 billion tax increase at this session.

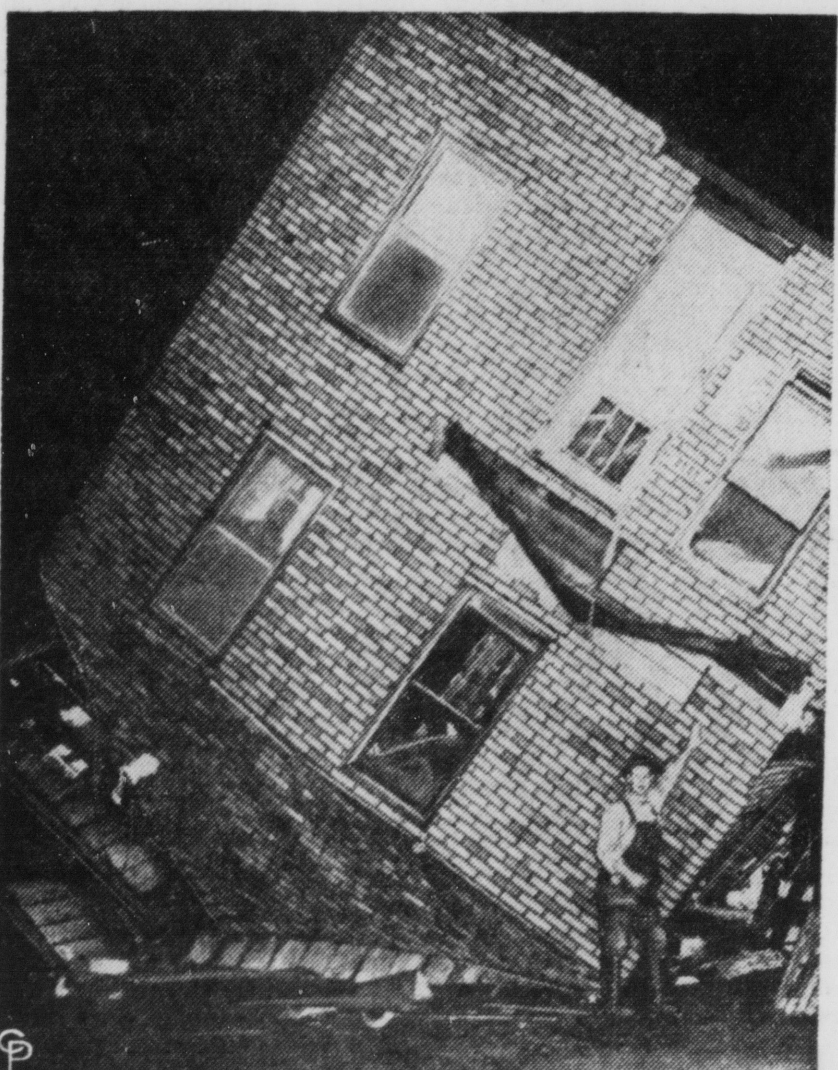

Other major phases of Mr. Truman's legislative program also are marked for at least temporary discard.

This was disclosed after Democratic congressional leaders conferred with the President in the White House.

Senate Majority Leader Lucas of Illinois said that the upper chamber will concentrate on ratification of the Atlantic pact, a new labor bill, and restoration of full reciprocal trade agreements.

Lucas said that these major objectives plus the mass of regular appropriation bills will keep the Senate hard at work until July 31 and possible until mid-August. He said:

"The President's program is a very heavy one. Not any single Congress could be expected to pass more than a portion of the program at one session."

STANDING IN FRONT of his wrecked house is C. E. Fry of Wood River, Ill., after tornadoes hammered the Midwest, killing at least 45 persons and injuring 300. The house was rented but the tenants were not at home when the storm hit.

RESIGNATION IS DEMANDED

Congress Launches Probe Of Lilienthal's Actions

WASHINGTON, May 24—Congress launched a wideopen investigation today of charges that David E. Lilienthal is guilty of "incredible mismanagement" of the nation's atomic program and should resign.

The Senate-House Atomic Committee began the probe by deciding to call in an "outside expert" for assistance in its inquiry of missing uranium, one of the reasons Lilienthal has been ordered on the carpet.

Announcement of the action came as other congressional sources said that "Scientist X," who allegedly gave atomic bomb secrets to a Communist Party organizer, now is supervising a part of the Atomic Energy Commission's scholarship program.

These sources said the mysterious "Scientist X," who has never been identified, will be subpoenaed soon by a House subcommittee.

Gas Pipeline Labor Dispute Now Settled

Settlement of a strike which shut down construction of a gas pipeline across the southern part of Ohio was reached yesterday in Lancaster.

Officials of the AFI Laborers, Truck Drivers and Operating Engineers Unions said the Associated Pipe Line Contractors, Inc., of Houston, Texas, gave in to practically all of the workers' demands.

The line from Texas to New York is being built for the Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. The line is expected to push from Fairfield into Pickaway County this week.

The three unions struck last weekend over wages, union recognition and working conditions. A spokesman announced at the close of yesterday's labor-management meeting that the company had granted union shops and wage increases of from 37 to 40 cents per hour and had guaranteed to improve working conditions.

The company was expected Tuesday to file for dissolution of a temporary injunction preventing picketing, secured last Friday. The order was modified Saturday and a hearing had been set for next Thursday.

Rubber Union Ousts Chieftain

AKRON, May 24—The CIO-United Rubber Workers of America reported today the ouster of President L. S. Buckmaster on a charge of "malfeasance of office."

H. R. Lloyd, former vice-president, succeeded Buckmaster as head of the 180,000 members in the rubber industry.

The union declined to explain the "malfeasance" but said another release would be issued later. Buckmaster had been president since December, 1945.

West Plans Force In Berlin Dispute

U.S. Chief Orders Police To Grab Railways From Reds

BERLIN, May 24—U. S. Military Commandant Brig. Gen. Frank L. Howley ordered Western sector police to take over all Communist-held railway and elevated stations in the American sector today in a direct action move to end the city's chaotic railway tieup.

Howley also sent an ultimatum to Soviet authorities demanding withdrawal of all East German police units from American sector stations.

The American military chief sent instructions to the Soviet-controlled Berlin railway directorate ordering that the Communist-led police be withdrawn from all railway stations and yards.

These will be taken over by Western sector police.

Howley's ultimatum was accompanied by announcement that U. S. troops will be used if Western Berlin police are unable to carry out their mission unaided.

THREE PERSONS have been killed and upwards of 1,200 injured in battling between striking rail workers and eastern zone strike-breaking squads.

Western sector police now occupy all except two stations in the U. S. sector, two in the British sector and one in the French.

All east zone rail traffic has been paralyzed in the Berlin suburbs.

The Soviets are reported to be arming Communist police with machineguns for an "invasion" of the western sectors in an effort to gain control of rail points wrested from them.

The city, meanwhile, was comparatively quiet after last night's shooting, riots and sporadic violence.

Strikers braved bullets and Communist police to retake a string of elevated stations in a

Big 4 Tackling Vexing Problem

PARIS, May 24—The Big Four Council of Foreign Ministers tackled the major problem of German unity today.

The second day of Big Four discussions in the former Anna Gould's "pink palace" near the Arch of Triumph began in the same cordial atmosphere that marked yesterday's first conference which resulted in quick agreement on an agenda.

Lt. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner, chief deputy to Gen. Lucius D. Clay during the latter's long service as United States military governor of Germany, attended today with Secretary of State Dean Acheson and other members of the American delegation.

Huebner's presence was regarded by observers as sure indication that the Big Four are going into the German issue—first item on the agenda—without delay.

The foreign ministers of Britain, France, Russia and the United States sat down for their second meeting in an atmosphere of friendliness to discuss the issue all agreed to make point one on their four-point agenda.

THEY ALSO WILL take up restoration of four-power controls over Germany in connection with the overall problem.

This vexing issue has pre-

Cattle Kill Rabid Fox

Following closely on the mad-dog scare which has promised a 90-day dog quarantine for all of Pickaway County, another rabid animal was discovered Monday in Saltcreek Township.

The animal was a fox, according to Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, killed on the Rufus VanFossen farm near Tarlton.

Blackburn said the animal had mingled with a herd of cattle on the VanFossen farm, and that the cattle killed it.

The head was taken to Columbus and the resulting test proved the animal rabid. VanFossen said he didn't know whether any of the cattle had been bitten.

Founders Lauded As Kiwanis Club Observes Its 20th Anniversary

More than 100 members and guests attended the 20th anniversary celebration of Circleville Kiwanis Club in Pickaway County Club Monday night.

The program, arranged by Dr. W. Lloyd Sprouse, chairman of the education committee of the club, contained tributes to founding members of the organization and a recapitulation of the projects undertaken and successfully completed.

Dwight Steele paid a tribute to the late Renick Dunlap for his efforts in behalf of the local Club. Dunlap was a lieutenant governor for this district and also served on the agricultural committee of International Kiwanis.

Steele lauded John Dunlap and C. E. Hill of Williamsport, only active members of the original charterists who joined when the club was formed May 29, 1929.

Hill received special mention from the speaker for his record of 19 years of perfect attendance to club functions.

Sterling Lamb and Russell Imbler, 19-year members to the club, also received special tribute during the program.

John Heiskell, Kiwanis secretary, followed Steele's speech with a resume of the activities of Circleville Kiwanians during the last 20 years.

Heiskell said the first problem facing the founders of the group was double-parking in Circleville.

He added that Kiwanis was one of the instrumental organizations backing the drive for Ted Lewis Park, and that it now supervises playground activities for local youngsters during the Summer.

Heiskell pointed out that following last year's park playground program the club sent five youngsters to Kiwanis Camp near Logan, and expects to finance a similar group again this Summer.

The Waltonian Chorus of Logan delivered a musical program during the evening for the anniversary celebration.

A MEMBER OF THE "weaker sex" proves to be a handful of dynamite as she struggles with a non-Communist trade unionist during Berlin's bloody railway strike battle. The 14-year-old girl was among the Red strike breakers who clashed with striking workers of the Soviet-operated railway in the west zone. The men had demanded pay in Western currency instead of in East marks.

Nationalists Moving Out Of City Ahead Of Reds

SHANGHAI, May 24—(Censored)—Thousands of Nationalist troops moved northward out of Shanghai tonight while Communist forces were reported breaking through the city's west and southwest defenses.

Editor's Note: This censored dispatch appears to indicate that the Nationalists may be evacuating the city as the Communists push forward.)

Nationalist forces moved steadily northward towards Wusung, where the Whangpoo joins the Yangtze, last escape route for almost completely encircled Shanghai.

Most of the troops carried all their belongings with them as they walked or rode in trucks, handcarts, rickshaws or pedicabs.

The city shook with the sound of explosions as the Nationalists literally burned their bridges behind them by blowing them up.

MOST OF THE city's six million residents retired behind closed doors as night fell.

Before moving north, the Nationalists scuttled four tankers off the Whangpoo at the point where the Avenue Edward VII joins the Bund. They scuttled a fifth off Garden Bridge.

British businessmen said the Communists have occupied British-owned Holt's Wharf at Pootung, five miles from the center of Shanghai. The British said their behavior is "exemplary."

American and British consulate officials warned their na-

General Motors Cuts Prices

DETROIT, May 24—The General Motors Corp. today made two economic adjustments consisting of a $10 to $40 drop in prices and a two-cent hourly wage boost.

GM President C. E. Wilson announced the listings on all GM passenger cars and trucks were trimmed for the second time this year to pass along company savings. The first 1949 cut, also $10 to $40, was announced on Feb. 25.

Meanwhile, GM hourly employees were granted the two-cent hike instead of the three-cent "improvement factor" increase due June 1. The "improvement" boost was trimmed as a result of drop in the consumers' index which controls GM wage adjustments.

Deer Creek Camper Dies In Stream

Friend, 73, Tries Get Help In Vain

Pickaway County recorded its first drowning of 1949 Tuesday morning when a fisherman from Springfield, vacationing along Deer Creek, lost his life.

Sheriff's department officials identified the victim as Arthur Quirk, 35, of Springfield.

Quirk and George Yates, 73, also of Springfield, opened a fishing camp Monday on the Lloyd Shaw farm, along Deer Creek in Deercreek township, about 10 miles southwest of Circleville.

The two men planned fishing nearly all of Tuesday, Yates leaving first afoot to fish downstream. Quirk remained at their tent, apparently to do some repair work in the camp.

Yates told sheriff's deputies he heard Quirk cry out, about 9:30 a. m. but thought his companion had caught a nice-sized fish.

RETURNING UPSTREAM to about where Quirk had been Yates said the man was not there. His boat, however, was visible and still upright. A hat floated on the water.

Yates told deputies he believed Quirk may have gone to the boat to get a water jug. He had said he was going to construct some shelving for the tent.

Deputies said they believed Quirk stepped into the boat and that he had fallen out. It was not immediately ascertained whether Quirk could swim. This was his third trip to the Shaw farm camping site, Yates reported.

Grappling operations for the body were started immediately upon the arrival of Sheriff's Deputies Carl Radcliff and Vern Pontious. The body was

Eisler Returned To Jail, Still Without Bail

LONDON, May 24—Bail-jumping Communist Gerhardt Eisler was remanded back to London's Brixton jail without bail today at the request of U. S. Embassy Attorney F. Graham Maw.

The proceedings against Eisler were postponed until Friday to give U. S. attorneys more time to prepare their case and study documents received from Washington late yesterday.

Eisler, whose extradition is sought by the U. S., was remanded until Friday in quick action at Bow Street court.

The fugitive, who jumped $23,500 bail to stow away on the Polish Liner Batory and flee from the United States, was again refused bail by the British court.

Dudley Collard, Eisler's barrister, protested the delay. He said:

"It is intolerable that Eisler should be kept in a British prison while the United States take their leisurely preparations in this case."

Eisler is under conviction in America for contempt of Congress and passport fraud. When he was removed from the Batory May 14 he was heading for Poland hoping to reach the Soviet zone of Germany.

Friend, 73, Tries Get Help In Vain

Pickaway County recorded its first drowning of 1949 Tuesday morning when a fisherman from Springfield, vacationing along Deer Creek, lost his life. Sheriff's department officials identified the victim as Arthur Quirk, 35, of Springfield.

Quirk and George Yates, 73, also of Springfield, opened a fishing camp Monday on the Lloyd Shaw farm, along Deer Creek in Deercreek township, about 10 miles southwest of Circleville.

The two men planned fishing nearly all of Tuesday, Yates leaving first afoot to fish downstream. Quirk remained at their tent, apparently to do some repair work in the camp. Yates told sheriff's deputies he heard Quirk cry out, about 9:30 a. m. but thought his companion had caught a nice-sized fish.

RETURNING UPSTREAM to about where Quirk had been Yates said the man was not there. His boat, however, was visible and still upright. A hat floated on the water.

Yates told deputies he believed Quirk may have gone to the boat to get a water jug. He had said he was going to construct some shelving for the tent. Deputies said they believed Quirk stepped into the boat and that he had fallen out. It was not immediately ascertained whether Quirk could swim. This was his third trip to the Shaw farm camping site, Yates reported.

Grappling operations for the body were started immediately upon the arrival of Sheriff's Deputies Carl Radcliff and Vern Pontious. The body was

Eisler Returned To Jail, Still Without Bail

LONDON, May 24—Bail-jumping Communist Gerhard Eisler was remanded back to London's Brixton jail without bail today at the request of U. S. Embassy Attorney F. Graham Maw. The proceedings against Eisler were postponed until Friday to give U. S. attorneys more time to prepare their case and study documents received from Washington late yesterday. Eisler, whose extradition is sought by the U. S., was remanded until Friday in quick action at Bow Street court. The fugitive, who jumped $23,500 bail to stay away from the Polish Liner Batory and flee from the United States, was again refused bail by the British court. Dudley Collard, Eisler's barrister, protested the delay. He said: "It is intolerable that Eisler should be kept in a British prison while the United States take their leisurely preparations in this case." Eisler is under conviction in America for contempt of Congress and passport fraud. When he was removed from the Batory May 14 he was heading for Poland hoping to reach the Soviet zone of Germany.

recovered by the two officers in about half an hour.
They said artificial respiration was not attempted. It was too late. The body was found in 12 feet of water about 20 feet from the west bank.
The 73-year-old Yates, despite his age, ran nearly a mile to the Shaw farm home to report the accident. He was nearly exhausted when he arrived at the home and Mrs. Shaw called the sheriff's office in Circleville.

SOON AFTER the deputies arrived on the scene, Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Dr. Lloyd Jones, coroner, appeared. An automatic death verdict of accidental drowning was expected.

ates told the deputies that Quirk recently had been laid off by International Harvester in Springfield and that the two went on the fishing trip to last until Thursday. They had been brought to the camp site by Quirk's fellow worker, Thomas Hogan, who returned to Springfield Monday.

The elderly man reported that Quirk was unmarried. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Quirk and a brother, John, of Springfield, and a sister who lives in New York City.

The body was taken to Williamsport by the C. E. Hill Funeral Home. Arrangements are incomplete.
The death was the first drowning in the county so far this year. In 1948, two youths drowned, both in July.

Timken Faces Union Demand

CANTON, May 24—The second negotiation session between officials of the CIO-United Steel Workers and the Timken Roller Bearing Co. has been set for a week from today.

Company and union officials met here yesterday to discuss the union's demand for a 15-cent hourly increase and a retirement pension for more than 10,000 workers in six Ohio Timken plants.

The union pension plan would give workers a $120-a-month pension at the age of 60 or if the worker is disabled during employment.

there is "considerable sentiment on my side of the aisle" for Lilienthal's resignation. Wherry said:

"I think it would be a good thing for the country if Lilienthal would resign as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. He would perform a great service to the atomic energy program if he would step out and let someone else take over."

Sen. McMahon, (D) Conn., chairman of the atomic committee, announced that the group considered Hickenlooper's charges all day yesterday. The committee:

1. Quizzed Dr. Isidore Edelman, who holds a $3,750 atomic energy scholarship, on his loyalty. Edelman said he may have signed a Communist Party application blank in 1943 but he denied he was a Communist. He testified in an open hearing.

2. Heard Dr. Walter H. Zinn report behind closed doors on the loss of the U-235 from the Argonne National Laboratory in Chicago, which he heads.

McMahon revealed that in the last few days more of the missing U-235 has been found. He said that now only about 3.49 grams still are missing.

Another amendment to the bill requires them to sign anti-Communist affidavits.

The house voted down, 52 yeas to 44 nays with 68 votes needed, a motion by Rep. Guy Hiner (R-Stark) to relieve the judiciary committee of his anti-salt machine bill. The bill, which provides a fine of up to $5,000 and up to ten years imprisonment for selling or exhibiting a slot machine, has been stymied in the committee although it was introduced Jan. 31.

A U. S. Navy enlisted man reported Tuesday he was beaten and robbed Monday night by two U. S. Marines north of Circleville.

He was Elmer Stevens of Ashville Route 2, who told Sheriff Charles Radcliff Tuesday he was robbed of $40 after absorbing a beating from the Marines.

The sailor said he had met the two Leathernecks in South Bloomfield and that they had suggested the three of them travel to Circleville in the Marines' car.

"Next thing I knew," Stevens told Radcliff, "Frank Clay picked me up from the old Noecker road."

Clay brought the sailor to Berger hospital, where he was treated for a bruised face and lacerated lip.

The sailor told the Sheriff $40 was missing from his person when he woke up.

Doublecheck Your Auto, Chief Warns

Tips On Safety Are Detailed

"To check accidents, double-check your car!"

This appeal was made Monday by Circleville Police Chief William McCrady in urging motorists to put their vehicles in safe operating condition as one means of preventing traffic deaths.

"The best driver in the world," he said, "is not accident-proof. A car that is mechanically deficient. He can't drive safely, for example, if the brakes of the car are not working in perfect order."

The following precautions were suggested:

- (1) Brakes be tested regularly.
- (2) Tires be kept in good repair and inflated as specified by the maker of the car.
- (3) Front-wheel alignment and steering apparatus be inspected frequently.
- (4) Headlamps, stoplights and tail-lights be checked often to insure safe driving.
- (5) Windshield wipers be kept working properly.
- (6) Rear-view mirror and rear window be kept clean.

"A driver," added Chief McCrady, "is as safe as his car. It is often fatal to delay repairs of any faulty mechanisms. Check your car and check accidents!"

The May program of vehicle maintenance is part of Operation Safety, a year-round traffic safety education program sponsored by the National Safety Council.

'New Degree' For JPs Voted Down By Solons

COLUMBUS, May 24—A new degree—that of "B. S. for graduates of the school of practical politics"—was proposed unsuccessfully today by State Rep. Ray C. Carpenter (R-Seneca).

Carpenter made his pseudo-serious proposal during debate on a bill, passed by the house 80-32, which would require new justices of the peace and constables be high school graduates.

Carpenter, stormy petrel of the house, attacked the "grandfather clause" in the bill which exempts present holders of such offices from the bill's provisions as long as they care to run for the office.

He then contended that the JPs and the constables be required to have "B. S." degree. Fortunately or unfortunately, his amendment was voted down.

Pupils Pen Essays On Democracy

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the fourth in a series of nine prize-winning essays on Democracy written by Circleville school pupils. One essay was selected as the best from each of the nine upper grades in Circleville.

Why American Democracy Is Best Government on Earth.
By FREDERICK GORDON
Grade Seven

Democracy had its start in England when the Magna Carta was signed in 1215. Soon after that, many countries took a step towards Democracy. But our country took the big step by forming a government that the people took part in.

Many wise men drew up our Constitution, our Bill of Rights and other great pieces of work. Our country has gained many freedoms, and we have formed a strong government and the highest standard of living in the world.

Now let's look at our standard of living. Nearly every family has a car, radio, running water and electricity. Those would be considered luxuries in many other countries.

America is filled with natural resources, and fertile land on which we grow corn, wheat, fruits and vegetables. Of every kind of foods, we have an abundant supply.

Our country has free clinics and hospitals that help those who cannot afford to pay for aid. Our hospitals have the most up-to-date equipment. There are groups of people who help those

Doctor Tells Freedom Given Late Forrestal

WASHINGTON, May 24—A Navy board will question Dr. George N. Raines today on his statement that a "calculated risk of suicide" was necessary in caring for Former Defense Secretary James V. Forrestal.

Dr. Raines, chief psychiatrist at the U. S. naval hospital, issued the statement on the eve of appearing as a witness today before the board probing Forrestal's death leap from the institution's 16th floor.

Forrestal, who took his own life early Sunday, will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery at 10 a. m. (EST) Wednesday with high military honors. President Truman, his cabinet and leaders of Congress will attend.

In his pre-appearance statement, Dr. Raines vigorously defended the freedom which enabled Forrestal to leap from the window and blamed the suicide jump on "a sudden fit of despondency."

The psychiatrist, himself a Navy captain, said: "The Navy has not and does not subscribe to the view that psychiatric patients should be thrown into a dungeon."

"It is our belief that calculated risks of therapy must be accepted for the practice of modern psychiatry."

"I had personally encouraged him (Forrestal) to leave his room and to visit about the floor. This increased socialization was considered essential to his recovery."

Execution Stay Granted Osinski

The following precautions were suggested:

- (1) Brakes be tested regularly.
- (2) Tires be kept in good repair and inflated as specified by the maker of the car.
- (3) Front-wheel alignment and steering apparatus be inspected frequently.
- (4) Headlamps, stoplights and tail-lights be checked often to insure safe driving.
- (5) Windshield wipers be kept working properly.
- (6) Rear-view mirror and rear window be kept clean.

"A driver," added Chief McCrady, "is as safe as his car. It is often fatal to delay repairs of any faulty mechanisms. Check your car and check accidents!"

The May program of vehicle maintenance is part of Operation Safety, a year-round traffic safety education program sponsored by the National Safety Council.

Gun Accident Kills Bride, 18

TOLEDO, May 24—A verdict of accidental death was returned today in the fatal shooting of Mrs. Mary Ann Bell, 18-year-old bride.

Mrs. Bell was killed by a .22-caliber rifle bullet Sunday in her Toledo home.

Lucas County Coroner Paul Hohly reported the bullet was fired accidentally by her husband of two months, Arthur C. Bell, 21. The bullet entered her face below the left eye.

Girl, 12, Takes Long Bus Ride

CLEVELAND, May 24—Cleveland authorities today held in protective custody a 12-year-old formally-attired New York girl who "didn't realize Cleveland was so far away."

The girl was picked up by detectives late yesterday at a bus station here after a bus trip which began Saturday afternoon in New York. Officers said they found her in a telephone booth telling her mother in New York that she had been kidnapped there and placed on the Cleveland-bound bus.

'New Degree' For JPs Voted Down By Solons

COLUMBUS, May 24 — A new degree—that of "B. S. for graduates of the school of practical politics"—was proposed unsuccessfully today by State Rep. Ray C. Carpenter (R-Seneca).

Carpenter made his pseudo-serious proposal during debate on a bill, passed by the house 80-32, which would require new justices of the peace and constables be high school graduates.

Carpenter, stormy petrel of the house, attacked the "grandfather clause" in the bill which exempts present holders of such offices from the bill's provisions as long as they care to run for the office.

He then contended that the JPs and the constables be required to have "B. S." degree. Fortunately or unfortunately, his amendment was voted down.

Mother, 15, Doing Nicely

COLUMBUS, May 24—Fifteen-year-old Mrs. Mary Calhoun's dark eyes sparkled happily today as she looked down at her eight-pound, 11-ounce son.

Her husband, Robert, now 19, years-old and with "Senior" latched onto his name—went to his construction job whistling.

Asked about the condition of the dark-haired, 99-pound mother, a nurse in White Cross hospital here said, "mother and son are doing very nicely, thank you."

Pupils Pen Essays On Democracy

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the fourth in a series of nine prize-winning essays on Democracy written by Circleville school pupils. One essay was selected as the best from each of the nine upper grades in Circleville.

Why American Democracy Is Best Government on Earth.
By FREDERICK GORDON Grade Seven

Democracy had its start in England when the Magna Carta was signed in 1215. Soon after that, many countries took a step towards Democracy. But our country took the big step by forming a government that the people took part in.

Many wise men drew up our Constitution, our Bill of Rights and other great pieces of work. Our country has gained many freedoms, and we have formed a strong government and the highest standard of living in the world.

Now let's look at our standard of living. Nearly every family has a car, radio, running water and electricity. Those would be considered luxuries in many other countries.

America is filled with natural resources, and fertile land on which we grow corn, wheat, fruits and vegetables. Of every kind of foods, we have an abundant supply.

Our country has free clinics and hospitals that help those who cannot afford to pay for aid. Our hospitals have the most up-to-date equipment. There are groups of people who help those

Doctor Tells Freedom Given Late Forrestal

WASHINGTON, May 24 — A Navy board will question Dr. George N. Raines today on his statement that a "calculated risk of suicide" was necessary in caring for Former Defense Secretary James V. Forrestal.

Dr. Raines, chief psychiatrist at the U. S. naval hospital, issued the statement on the eve of appearing as a witness today before the board probing Forrestal's death leap from the institution's 16th floor.

Forrestal, who took his own life early Sunday, will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery at 10 a. m. (EST) Wednesday with high military honors. President Truman, his cabinet and leaders of Congress will attend.

In his pre-appearance statement, Dr. Raines vigorously defended the freedom which enabled Forrestal to leap from the window and blamed the suicide jump on "a sudden fit of despondency."

The psychiatrist, himself a Navy captain, said: "The Navy has not and does not subscribe to the view that psychiatric patients should be thrown into a dungeon."

"It is our belief that calculated risks of therapy must be accepted for the practice of modern psychiatry."

"I had personally encouraged him (Forrestal) to leave his room and to visit about the floor. This increased socialization was considered essential to his recovery."

The Dayton headquarters announced yesterday that the cut in retail cost of four household models would be effective immediately.

Execution Stay Granted Osinski

COLUMBUS, May 24 — The Ohio supreme court today granted a stay of execution to James C. Osinski, Toledo transient who was to have been executed June 2 for the slaying of his wife and her parents.

The court granted the stay pending the receipt of an appeal from the district appellate court, which fixed the date of his execution "June 2 before sunrise."

Osinski, who claims to be a former patient in a Jackson, Ill., mental hospital, shot and killed his wife, Loretta, and her parents, Raymond and Louise Dittmyer, on Dec. 13, 1947.

THE House wants Congress to investigate lobbies. It has approved a resolution to that effect, and if the Senate concurs a joint investigating committee will go to work.

What is a lobby? According to the dictionary a lobby comprises the persons who frequent the approaches to the legislative chambers, for the purpose of influencing members of the law-making body. Congress has a law requiring lobbyists to register; it defines a lobbyist as a person who lobbies for hire. President Truman, who suggested the lobby investigation, said perhaps in jest that anyone trying to influence Congress in favor of the presidential program is not a lobbyist, since that person is working in the public interest. It might be inferred from this that the President defines a lobbyist as someone trying to influence Congress against the public interest, whatever that is.

The general idea is that a lobby is something bad. But it is not considered bad for a citizen to write to his congressman and senators to express his views, nor is it bad for that citizen to drop into their offices when he is in Washington. It is not considered bad for a member of Congress to try to influence other members. It is not considered bad for the President to recommend legislation. Why does it become bad for a citizen who cannot spend the necessary time in Washington to hire someone to represent his interests in the congressional corridors?

Any investigation of lobbies ought to include an inquiry into the question of whether there are good lobbies and bad lobbies, and if so how to tell them apart. Here is a problem for Solomon.

These Days

It is not often that a columnist gets a windfall, but that has happened to me. William J. Dunsmore has sent a letter to every senator and he also sent me a copy and I am giving it to you for free, admitting without reservation that I could not have done better. Dunsmore is the father of nine children. He pays $15,000 in taxes a year and sends three children to college. Sounds like a wholesome citizen. So here is the letter he sent along:

"In reply to your request to send a check, I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it almost impossible. My shattered financial condition is due to federal laws, state laws, county laws, city laws, corporation laws, liquor laws, mother-in-laws, brother-in-laws, sister-in-laws, and outlaws.

"Through these laws I am expected to pay a business tax, amusement tax, head tax, school tax, gas tax, light tax, sales tax, liquor tax, carpet tax, income tax, food tax, furniture tax, and excise tax. Even my brains are taxed. I am required to get a business license, car license, hunting and fishing license, truck license, not to mention a marriage license and dog license.

"I am also required to contribute to every society and organization which the genius of man is capable of bringing to life; to women's relief, the unemployment relief and the gold digger's relief. Also to every hospital and charitable organization in the city, including the Red Cross, the black cross, the purple cross, and the double cross.

"For my own safety I am required to carry life insurance, property insurance, liability insurance, burglar insurance, accident insurance, business insurance, earthquake insurance, tornado insurance, unemployment insurance, old age and fire insurance.

"My business is so governed that it is no easy matter for me to find out who owns it. I am inspected, expected, disrespected, rejected, dejected, examined, reexamined, informed, required, summoned, fined, commanded, and compelled until I provide an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need of the human race.

"Simply because I refuse to donate to something or other I am boycotted, talked about, lied about, held up, held down, and robbed until I am almost ruined.

"The only reason I am clinging to life at all is to see what the hell is coming next."

Now, the writer of this letter has nothing on the rest of us. Last year, after I paid Mr. Truman his share and Mr. Dewey his share, I luckily came out even. Dunsmore is in the insurance business, which is still a popular enterprise. Mine is an ephemeral enterprise depending upon how few mistakes I am found making. The other day an editor in Texas caught me at a fault in taste. Fortunately for me, no one else raised the question. Then, on the radio, I have to worry about sponsors and all sorts of troubles. Also, I might slip on a banana peel and not be able to work for six months. If I cannot save in the year of my highest

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

CHIP HALLIDAY, diving down into the white-crested, raging waters of Bear Creek, had a breathless moment when he thought he was going to batter himself against the rocks studding this stream. He had no time to weigh the consequences when he'd gone over the railing of the bridge, no thought but to elude the lawmen who were bringing him to Tumblerock's jail. He'd acted on impulse, and now the creek rose up to claim him; he plunged under the water, feeling his shoulder scrape against a bulging rock, and then the current had a hard hold on him and he was swept along between the willow fringed banks.

High up on the bridge behind, the guns were blossoming redly against the night; but the roar of them was blanketed beneath the greater clamor of the creek. Mountain snows fed this rampaging little river, and the cold shock of the water numbed Chip, sapping his strength away and turning his legs and arms to wood. He made no effort at swimming, only striving to keep his head above the surface while he let the current have its way with him. He sucked in great mouthfuls of air whenever he could, and he swallowed more than a little water. But he was being carried away from those guns on the bridge.

Yet this was only trading peril for peril; a man couldn't live long at the mercy of this stream, and he tried feebly to make it to one of the dark shores. It was like pitting himself against a mountain wall—a wall that moved and had a mind of its own—but at last some vagary of the current swept him toward the western bank, thrusting him hard against a boulder. He had enough of consciousness left to wrap his arms tightly around the rock, and here he clung until a measure of strength came back to him. Now he found that his feet touched bottom, but for a long time he was content to remain where he was.

Overhanging bushes shadowed him, almost brushing his face, and he grasped at them experimentally with one hand. Then he became aware that somebody was thrashing through the underbrush nearby, and he turned rigid, scarcely daring to breathe. Through the interlacing leaves and branches, he made out a bulky figure, stooped low in frantic search; and from afar came a voice, faint with distance and almost lost beneath the creek's roar.

"Any sign of him?" the voice called.

The searcher straightened, cupping his hands to his mouth. "It's like looking for a needle in a haystack. He might be a mile downstream by now!"

The other voice shouted again from the vicinity of the bridge, but the sound didn't quite carry to Chip. The one who'd been doing the searching must have heard, though, for he turned back then and soon lost himself from Chip's view.

view. But still Chip clung to the rock, waiting many minutes before he dragged himself to the bank.

He'd hoped that his try at escaping might have so disconcerted Sheriff Frank Busby and his deputies that Singin' Sam and Clark Rayburn would also have been able to make a get-away in the ensuing confusion. But only one man had come to search the creek bank, and that meant that Busby had sagely stayed where he could keep a watchful eye on his remaining prisoners. And shortly a more thorough search would doubtless be made for Chip Halliday.

That last thought sent Chip stumbling away from the creek, and he came out of the fringing willows and into a broken land of coulees and ridges. From the higher rises he saw that he was just a little south of Tumblerock town. His teeth were chattering and his clothes clung wetly to him, but he put his will against the temptation to try and build a fire, warming himself instead by walking as briskly as he could.

Soon the chill was out of him, and his need was for a plan of action. He thought of Hope Brennan and wished fervently that she'd stay clear of Tumblerock and possible capture. Singin' Sam and Clark Rayburn would be lodged in jail, of course, and after an hour he ventured into the town, approaching it from the southwest and crawling furtively toward that weedy lot next to the jail-building where he'd once found Tate Strunk awaiting him.

From this vantage point, the jail looked dark and deserted, but he couldn't see the front of the building, and there might be a light in Busby's office. Probably the sheriff was out searching the creek bank, but then, again, Busby might have put others at that task. Chip was edging nearer to the jail when from within its interior a squeaky, tuneless voice raised itself in song:

"The old oak-en-n bucket, the iron-bound bucket-et-t-t-t. The moss-covered bucket, that hung in the well-l-l-l."

Chip eased closer to one of the barred windows. "Sam—?" he called softly.

The song trailed away, and a moment later McAllister's old face was pressed against the bars. "Chip, you loco son-of-a-gun!" Sam cried gleefully. "So you made it! Them bullets had me worried, and that crick didn't look like anything to give a man pleasure!"

"Rayburn in there with you?" "Here, Halliday," the Forlorn leader said, his sad face appearing beside McAllister's.

"How are things shaping? You two been officially charged with anything?"

"They'll hold a coroner's inquest into the death of St. John tomorrow," Rayburn said. "I'm being held for that. If the evidence stacks up right, I'll be charged with St. John's murder and ordered held for trial. And Alessandro will see that the evidence is what he strength when it's all he has left that hasn't already been taxed.

Of course it's odd that after two weeks in the open air they don't look any healthier.

Anyway with the contract discussions and the health strike running simultaneously increased doses of D, re, mi and vitamins A, B, C can be argued at the same time.

In fact there is some thought that the health strike is more apt to concern Detroit treasurers than Detroit doctors.

Or as the chorus girl remarked when she was asked what the doctor prescribed for her broken heart: "His brother, the lawyer."

NEW YORK—You wonder, sometimes, just how a man thinks and what he has in mind when he decides to open a night club. His primary objective, of course, is to make money. It is hard to believe honestly that any cafe ever was started for any other reason. However, it also is difficult to imagine that a man can operate a club with such complete detachment that—so long as it makes money for him—its decor, its entertainment and its clientele do not interest him in the slightest.

For after all, the night club is its owner's career, just as the thing a banker does most of his life is bank, and just as a ballplayer has to show for his life, when it is done, a handful of memories of spikes flying, sweat dripping down his pitching arm and crowds roaring.

An empty-faced, big-nosed woman in one of those breakaway burlesque dresses—a single unfastened clasp will reduce them to a pile of satin at one's feet—comes out and takes off as much of her clothes as the law will allow, to the accompaniment of drumbeats and her own grinds and bumps.

The customers applaud mildly. Some college-age kids at a ring-side table applaud a little more enthusiastically. The empty-faced woman vanishes through a pair of curtains leading to a hallway and a tall, broad-shouldered and swarthy girl repeats the performance with a little more humor and subtlety.

Finally a tall, aging woman comes out and sings a little in a poor and harmless voice. Then she, too, takes off her breakaway dress and grinds her way through the violent, sickening dance.

YOU SIT THERE IN THE SMOKE and the noise and watch the animal-like faces of the customers, and you contemplate the existence of places like these.

These are the pieces of existence, the warp and the woof, and unless you have tried somewhat to make them good and right, the nights can be sleepless.

However, you wonder. Tonight, for example, you enter a downtown night club. It is smoky and noisy and its minimum is $3.50;
these are things, of course, to be expected. The liquor is tasteless and the waiters brusque—but you suffer silently, watching the liam J. Dunsmore has sent a letter to every senator and he also sent me a copy and I am giving it to you for free, admitting without reservation that I could not have done better. Dunsmore is the father of nine children. He pays $15,000 in taxes a year and sends three children to college. Sounds like a wholesome citizen. So here is the letter he sent along:

"In reply to your request to send a check, I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it almost impossible. My shattered financial condition is due to federal laws, state laws,
county laws, city laws, corporation laws,
liquor laws, mother-in-laws, brother-in-laws, sister-in-laws, and outlaws.

"Through these laws I am expected to pay a business tax, amusement tax, head tax, school tax, gas tax, light tax, sales tax, liquor tax, carpet tax, income tax,
food tax, furniture tax, and excise tax.
Even my brains are taxed. I am required to get a business license, car license, hunting and fishing license, truck license, not to mention a marriage license and dog license.

"I am also required to contribute to every society and organization which the genius of man is capable of bringing to life;
to women's relief, the unemployment relief and the gold digger's relief. Also to every hospital and charitable organization in the city, including the Red Cross, the black cross, the purple cross, and the double cross.

"For my own safety I am required to carry life insurance, property insurance, liability insurance, burglar insurance, accident insurance, business insurance, earthquake insurance, tornado insurance,
unemployment insurance, old age and fire insurance.

"My business is so governed that it is no easy matter for me to find out who owns it.
I am inspected, expected, disrespected, rejected, dejected, examined, reexamined, informed, required, summoned, fined,
commanded, and compelled until I provide an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need of the human race.

"Simply because I refuse to donate to something or other I am boycotted, talked about, lied about, held up, held down, and robbed until I am almost ruined.

"The only reason I am clinging to life at all is to see what the hell is coming next."

Now, the writer of this letter has nothing on the rest of us. Last year, after I paid Mr. Truman his share and Mr. Dewey his share, I luckily came out even. Dunsmore is in the insurance business, which is still a popular enterprise. Mine is an ephemeral enterprise depending upon how few mistakes I am found making. The other day an editor in Texas caught me at a fault in taste. Fortunately for me, no one else raised the question. Then, on the radio, I have to worry about sponsors and all sorts of troubles. Also, I might slip on a banana peel and not be able to work for six months.
If I cannot save in the year of my highest

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX
CHIP HALLIDAY, diving downward into the white-crested, raging waters of Bear Creek, had a breathless moment when he thought he was going to batter himself against the rocks studding this stream. He'd had no time to weigh the consequences when he'd gone over the railing of the bridge,
no thought but to elude the law-
men who were bringing him to Tumblerock's jail. He'd acted on impulse, and now the creek rose up to claim him, he plunged under the water, feeling his shoulder scrape against a bulging rock, and then the current had a hard hold on him and he was swept along between the willow fringed banks.

High up on the bridge behind,
the guns were blossoming redly against the night; but the roar of them was blanketed beneath the greater clamor of the creek. Mountain snows fed this rampaging
little river, and the cold shock of the water numbed Chip, sapping his strength away and turning his legs and arms to wood.
He made no effort at swimming,
only striving to keep his head above the surface while he let the current have its way with him.
He sucked in great mouthfuls of air whenever he could, and he swallowed more than a little water. But he was being carried away from those guns on the bridge.

Yet this was only trading peril
for peril; a man couldn't live long at the mercy of this stream, and he tried feebly to make it to one of the dark shores. It was like pitting himself against a mountain wall—a wall that moved and had a mind of its own—but at last some vagary of the current swept him toward the western bank,
thrusting him hard against a boulder.
He had enough of consciousness left to wrap his arms tightly around the rock, and here he clung until a measure of strength came back to him. Now he found that his feet touched bottom, but for a long time he was content to remain where he was.

Overhanging bushes shadowed him, almost brushing his face, and he grasped at them experimentally with one hand. Then he became aware that somebody was threshing through the underbrush nearby, and he turned rigid, scarcely daring to breathe. Through the interlacing leaves and branches, he made out a bulky figure, stooped low in frantic search; and from afar came a voice, faint with distance and almost lost beneath the creek's roar.

"Any sign of him?" the voice called.

The searcher straightened, cup-ping his hands to his mouth. "Is he looking for a needle in a haystack. He might be a mile downstream by now!"

The other voice shouted again
from the vicinity of the bridge,
but the sound didn't quite carry to Chip. The one who'd been doing the searching must have heard, though, for he turned back then and soon lost himself from Chip's sight.

view. But still Chip clung to the rock, waiting many minutes before he dragged himself to the bank.

He'd hoped that his try at escaping might have so disconcerted Sheriff Frank Busby and his deputies that Singin' Sam and Clark Rayburn would also have been able to make a get-away in the ensuing confusion. But only one man had come to search the creek bank, and that meant that Busby had sagely stayed where he could keep a watchful eye on his remaining prisoners. And shortly a more thorough search would doubtless be made for Chip Halliday.

That last thought sent Chip stumbling away from the creek,
and he came out of the fringing willows and into a broken land of coulees and ridges. From the higher rises he saw that he was just a little south of Tumblerock town.
His teeth were chattering and his clothes clung wetly to him, but he put his will against the temptation to try and build a fire, warming himself instead by walking as briskly as he could.

Soon the chill was out of him,
and his need was for a plan of action. He thought of Hope Brennan and wished fervently that she'd stay clear of Tumblerock and possible capture. Singin' Sam and Clark Rayburn would be lodged in jail, of course, and after an hour he ventured into the town, approaching it from the southwest and crawling furtively toward that weedy lot next to the jail-building where he'd once found Tate Strunk awaiting him.

From this vantage point, the jail looked dark and deserted, but he couldn't see the front of the building, and there might be a light in Busby's office. Probably the sheriff was out searching the creek bank, but then, again, Busby might have put others at that task. Chip was edging nearer to the jail when from within its interior a squeaky, tuneless voice
raised itself in song:

"The old oak-en-n-n bucket, the
iron-bound buck-et-t-t,
The moss-covered buck-et, that
hung in the well-l-l-l..."

Chip eased closer to one of the barred windows. "Sam?" he called softly.

The song trailed away, and a moment later McAllister's old face was pressed against the bars.
"Chip, you loco son-of-a-gun!"
Sam cried gleefully. "So you made it! Them bullets had me worried, and that crick didn't look like anything to give a man pleasure!"

"Rayburn in there with you?"

"Here, Halliday," the Forlorn leader said, his sad face appearing beside McAllister's.

"How are things shaping? You two been officially charged with anything?"

"They'll hold a coroner's inquest into the death of St. John tomorrow," Rayburn said. "I'm being held for that. If the evidence stacks up right, I'll be charged with St. John's murder and ordered held for trial. And Alessandro will see that the evidence is what he wants it to be. I knew it would come to this someday. I've outlived my usefulness to him, so he's bent upon destroying me."

Singin' Sam said, "I'm still an escaped convict, I guess. The sheriff ain't wasted much time on me."

"What about Busby?" Chip
asked Rayburn. "Does he belong to Alessandro like everybody else
around here?"

"I've never been sure," Rayburn said. "Alessandro's weight can swing a lot of votes, and Busby likely never forgets that. But mostly I think it's just plain stupidity that makes him Alessandro's tool. How Busby would act if a real showdown shaped, I don't know."

Singin' Sam said, "You reckon
we ought to tip our hand, Chip, and tell that tin-toter who you and me really are?"

Chip shook his head. "We haven't any proof we can lay our hands on in a minute," he said. "Besides, there's something else I'm after
now. The scalp of Seton Alessandro. The governor wants to make law-abiding country out of the Tumblerocks, but he'll never have it till Alessandro's salted down.
And I figure that Alessandro,
given enough rope, will hang himself. The town's quiet, there's no lynching shaping up, so I reckon Alessandro's next move will be at the inquest. I took that dive off the bridge because I figured the jail would be a death trap, but now I'm thinking you're as safe here tonight as you'd be any-place, And I won't be far away."

Rayburn said, "You've got to believe me, Halliday; I had no hand
in whatever happened to Justin St.
John."

"Sheriff's comin' down the corridor!" Singin' Sam hissed and instantly began singing again:

"The old oak-en-n-n bucket, the
iron-bound buck-et-t-t,
Th' moss-covered buck-et, that

With that unmelodious rendition ringing in his ears, Chip scurried away into the deeper shadows and here he paused, listening to Sam's squeaky singing until the words sank into his consciousness and tied themselves to some nebulous memory. And suddenly Chip was quivering with excitement, for he was recalling something that might tangle Seton Alessandro's twine, and the need to substantiate his new-born theory became like a hunger.

There were a few things he must know first, and Clark Rayburn could probably give him the information. But Singin' Sam was into another stanza of his song, and by this token Chip recognized a signal that the sheriff was still in the offing. So Chip cat-footed out of this weedy lot and to the boardwalk of Tumblerock's main street.
With a bold and appraising eye,
he studied the horses lined at the nearest hitchrail, selected the one that looked the speediest, stepped up into its saddle and lined off into the night...

Kiernan's
ONE MAN'S OPINION

Mr. Reuther has opened Ford contract discussions 15 days early. We understand he said, "I thought this would be a good time to drop in while you're not busy."

But the Ford workers' health strike makes sense. There's no point in a fellow taxing his strength when it's all he has left that hasn't already been taxed.

Of course it's odd that after two weeks in the open air they don't look any healthier.

Anyway with the contract discussions and the health strike running simultaneously increased doses of do, re, mi and vitamins A, B, C can be argued at the same time.

In fact there is some thought that the health strike is more apt to concern Detroit treasurers than Detroit doctors.

Or as the chorus girl remarked when she was asked what the doctor prescribed for her broken heart: "His brother, the lawyer."

EUB Home Builders Class Assures Cornerstone For New Community House

Group Hears Details Of Proposed Building

It was disclosed at a meeting of Home Builders Class of First EUB church that a cornerstone for the proposed new community house is to be a contribution from the class.

The new building is to be constructed on the site of the present community house located on the west side of the church on East Main street. Clarence Radcliff presented the blueprints of the new building and explained them in detail.

This discussion took place Monday evening when the class met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Fullen of Circleville Route 2. A new constitution as prepared by the executive committee was read and adopted.

Newly elected officers of the class including Edwin Richardson, president; Woodrow Carley, vice-president; Mrs. David Betts, secretary; Mrs. Eugene Richardson, assistant secretary; Mrs. Raymond Reichelderfer, treasurer; Mrs. Clarence Radcliff, teacher; and Clarence Radcliff and the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, assistant teachers, drew up the new constitution.

Standing committees were appointed. Mr. and Mrs. Fullen were selected chairmen of the purpose and methods committee. They are to be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Verneal Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Carley. On the fellowship committee are Mrs. David Betts, chairman, Mrs. Nolan Sims Jr., and Mrs. Eugene Richardson. Mrs. Franklin Glitt, Mrs. Albert Crosby and Mrs. Raymond Reichelderfer serve on the calendar committee.

It was voted to have picnics in the months of June, July and August. Franklin Glitt was selected chairman for these outings. He is to be assisted by Eugene Richardson and Raymond Reichelderfer.

EUB Home Builders Class Assures Cornerstone For New Community House

Group Hears Details Of Proposed Building

It was disclosed at a meeting of Home Builders Class of First EUB church that a cornerstone for the proposed new community house is to be a contribution from the class.

The new building is to be constructed on the site of the present community house located on the west side of the church on East Main street. Clarence Radcliff presented the blueprints of the new building and explained them in detail.

This discussion took place Monday evening when the class met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Fullen of Circleville Route 2. A new constitution as prepared by the executive committee was read and adopted.

Newly elected officers of the class including Edwin Richardson, president; Woodrow Carley, vice-president; Mrs. David Betts, secretary; Mrs. Eugene Richardson, assistant secretary; Mrs. Raymond Reichelderfer, treasurer; Mrs. Clarence Radcliff, teacher; and Clarence Radcliff and the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, assistant teachers, drew up the new constitution.

Standing committees were appointed. Mr. and Mrs. Fullen were selected chairmen of the purpose and methods committee. They are to be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Carley. On the fellowship committee are Mrs. David Betts, chairman, Mrs. Nolan Sims Jr., and Mrs. Eugene Richardson. Mrs. Franklin Glitt, Mrs. Albert Crosby and Mrs. Raymond Reichelderfer serve on the calendar committee.

It was voted to have picnics in the months of June, July and August. Franklin Glitt was selected chairman for these outings. He is to be assisted by Eugene Richardson and Raymond Reichelderfer.

IF TRYING to make friends with one skunk can be regarded as hazardous—as it usually is—then Patsy Johnson of Pueblo, Colo., must qualify as a very courageous girl indeed. She adopted these five "skunklets" when their mother was killed. She feeds them milk and syrup through an eyedropper. Naming three Stinky, Inky and Blinky, Patsy hopes for the best. (International)

BECKER BOYS DEFLATED

Lesnevich Is Toppled By Maxim's Punching

CINCINNATI, May 24 — They beat the funeral tom-toms today for aging Gus Lesnevich and a couple of promoters who went $40,000 into the drink trying to find out if Gus could save his national light heavy crown from Joey Maxim—which he couldn't.

The 27-year-old Maxim piroquetted and jabbed his way into line for a title whack at England's world 175-pound champ, Freddy Mill, by scoring a unanimous decision over the 34-year-old Lesnevich in Cincinnati Gardens last night.

Promoters Sam and Benny Becker had it all figured. The winner of last night's bout would meet Mills for the world title in Cincinnati's Crosley Field next September, with an $80,000 guarantee to the Britisher.

How they felt about it today, however, was another question. Where a capacity crowd of 14,000 was expected last night, exactly 6,931 showed up. Where a gross gate of $100,000 was fondly anticipated, $56,151 materialized.

WHAT THE DEBACLE meant to the Becker boys could not immediately be assayed, but what it meant to Lesnevich seemed clear and forthright.

Gone was his right to meet the Ezzard Charles-Joe Walcott heavyweight title winner, a right he would have had if Lee Savold, the first heir apparent, had lost in his forthcoming British match.

Instead, it was Maxim, Jack Kearns' slim, high-voiced white hope from Cleveland, who emerged the new "possible" in the heavyweight picture. After all, Maxim fought Charles to a highly-disputed split decision in those same Cincinnati Gardens three months ago.

It was clearly his fight last night, from the tenth round on. Before that, Lesnevich had scored soundly in the first two rounds and again in the seventh.

But the scar-faced veteran from Cliffside Park, N. J., didn't have it for the 15-round route. Not, especially, after yesterday morning, when he did six miles' worth of road work to make the weight of 175, which he did by a quarter of a pound. Maxim weighed 174 with no trouble.

The Ohioan's left was like a rapier all night long. At one point, in the ninth round, he beat a tattoo of eight straight jabs on Lesnevich's countenance before the enraged easterner could retaliate. And Joey, a 6-to-5 favorite at ring time, went away in the closing chapters.

Grace Lenzyk Is Upset In British Test

HARLECH, Wales, May 24 — Grace Lenzyk of Newington, Conn., was eliminated today in the third round of the British Women's Golf Championships, in a stunning upset.

The American champion, who was a strong favorite to win the British title, was defeated by Miss Jeanne Bisgood of London, 2 and 1.

Peggy Kirk, of Findlay, O., only American left in the tournament, carried on into the fourth round today with a brilliant 3 and 2 victory over Mrs. R. T. Peel, Scottish veteran.

Miss Lenzyk's defeat was a shock to the American colony. It was expected that only Miss Kirk would offer a serious obstacle on her road to the title.

Rain fell just before play began and the turf, already sodden from previous downpours, was a quagmire in spots.

The treacherous underfooting appeared to affect Miss Lenzyk's game but her opponent, well used to such conditions, in her native Scotland, thrived in the rough going.

Grandma Wins With Puzette

AURORA DOWNS, Ill., May 24 — Mrs. Forrest (Grandma) Burrill piloted her Puzette to victory last night in the feature 6 1/2 furlong race at Aurora Downs.

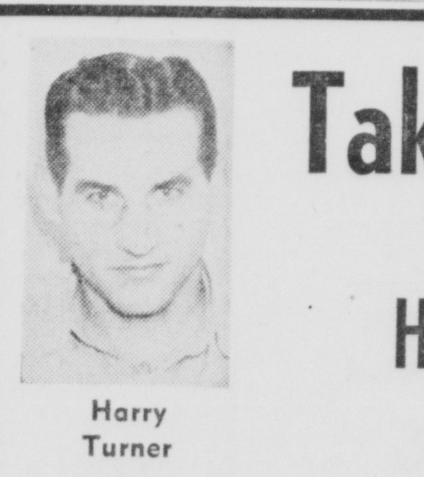

The 65-year-old owner-driver pushed the 8-year-old mare under the wire ahead of seven other starters in 1:41 2-5, as Whitney Bars and the Great Vic followed.

PGA Chieftains Are 'Shocked' When Boys Label Meet 'Ersatz'

RICHMOND, Va., May 24 — Professional Golf Association officials professed "shock" today that writers labeled their 31st PGA championship "ersatz."

They virtually ignored the remark and made their perennial announcement that the tournament, which begins here tomorrow, will be "one of the finest in history."

It could be "one of the finest in history," before it is over, but at the moment, it is without four of the biggest names in golf.

Defending Champion Ben Hogan is sidelined because of a crippling automobile accident that occurred a few months back. Dr. Cary Middlecoff is goldfom's second leading money winner, but he is barred from not having served a five-year apprenticeship at a golf club.

Byron Nelson is simply not entered. The one-time lord of the golf links went back to Texas to look after his cattle following the recent Goodall tournament.

THE FOURTH persona non grata is Bobby Locke. The PGA no longer considers the Johannesburg, South Africa, shakel-hunter a guest.

They say that a foreign golfer is a guest once. They hasten to add, however, that when he sets up almost permanent housekeeping, he is no longer a guest.

No mention is made of the fact that Locke seems to have regained the magic touch which he had on his first invasion of the United States. The sub-par performance he gave at the Goodall tournament made it seem that pars were only for duffers.

It is safe to assume that he would have been a big favorite to win the PGA's $3,500 first prize. But Locke has no invitation.

In Ireland, however, Amateurs Frank Stranahan and Willie Turnesa and a number of other American golfers are competing for the British amateur championship. They are welcome across the Atlantic in conspicuous contrast to the manner in which Locke is being treated.

The absence of the "big four" leaves Samuel Jackson Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., the favorite. The recent Augusta Masters winner toured the 6,667-yard Hermitage Country Club in a one under-par 70 yesterday.

Detroit's Chick Harbert had the best round among the 100 professionals already on hand. His 68 was a stroke better than the scores posted by Eddie Burke of Newport, R. I., and Jack Patroni of Rye, N. Y.

Milwaukee Nabs Leadership In AA Flag Chase

COLUMBUS, May 24 — St. Paul lost its season-long American Association lead to Milwaukee last night.

The Brewers, who have crept up steadily on the Saints for the last few weeks, took over by one-half game when they stepped on Indianapolis' four-game winning streak in the seventh to win 6-4.

Meanwhile, the Saints felt the lash of cellar-dwelling Louisville's wrath in a 4-3 contest.

The Brewers now contrast favorably with the team which has led league competition since the beginning of the season. They have 19 wins and 10 losses while St. Paul has 19 wins but 11 losses.

Columbus' Red Birds beat Minneapolis by a wide margin, as young Johnny Remke went the distance.

The Red Bird hurler scattered nine harmless hits and fanned five Millers to win 10-3.

The Toledo Mudhens started out with a handicap in their floodlight brawl with Kansas City, but snapped back to ease over the Blues 6-5.

The Hens were four runs down in the first frame and stayed that way until the third when they started their comeback trail with one hit. Then by ones and twos they kept going until they broke through in the eighth with a pair that sent the scoreboard their way.

Amy Wins Ohio Golfing Tourney

Ed Amy, manager of Pick-away Country Club, walked off with the championship of the annual Ohio Professional Greenskeepers tournament in Delaware Monday.

Amy scored his win on a two-over-par 72 score on the Sunbury course, while the closest opponent trailed with a five-over-par 75 tally.

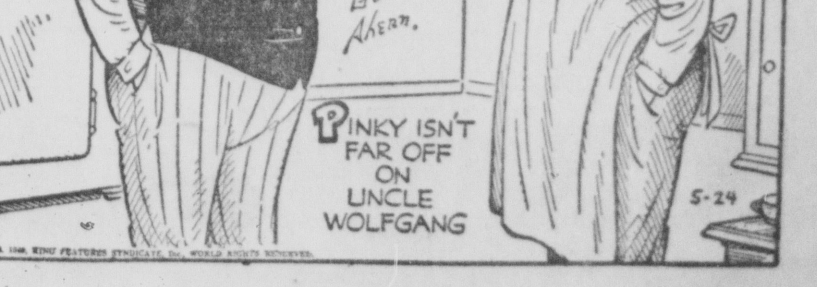

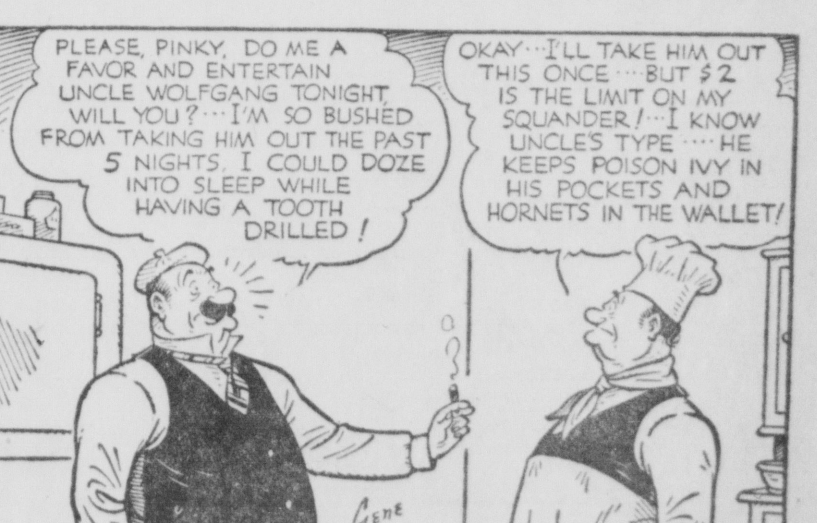

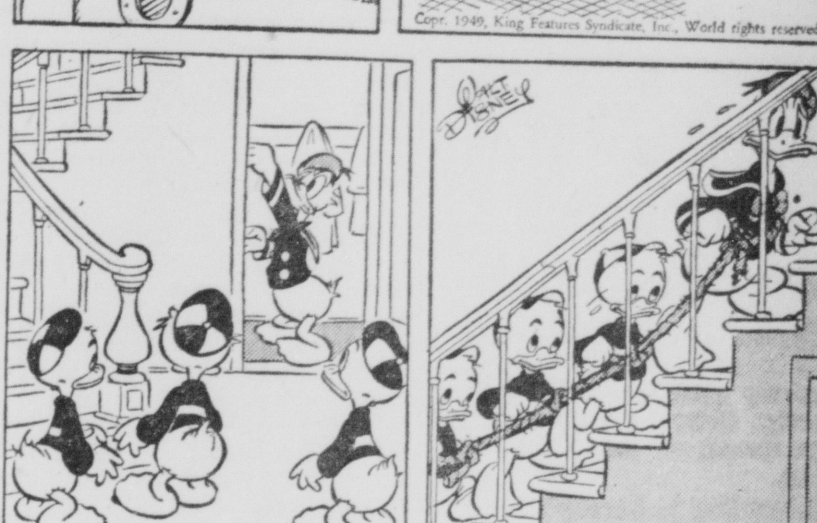

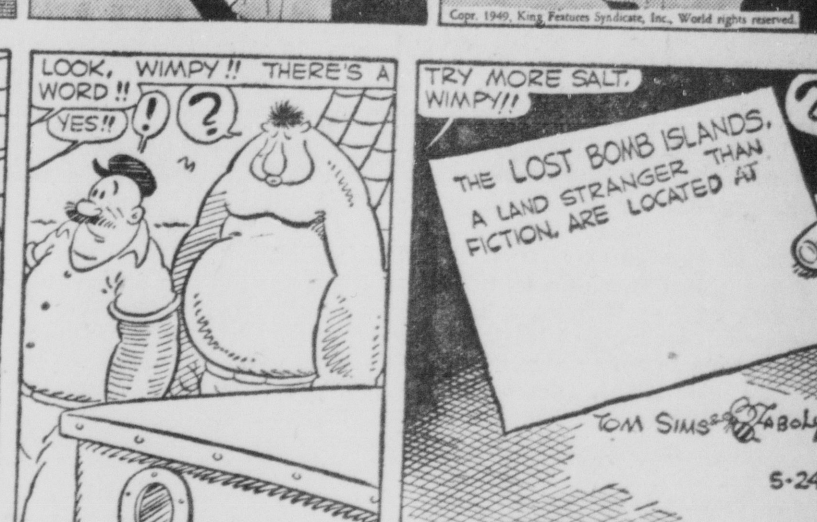

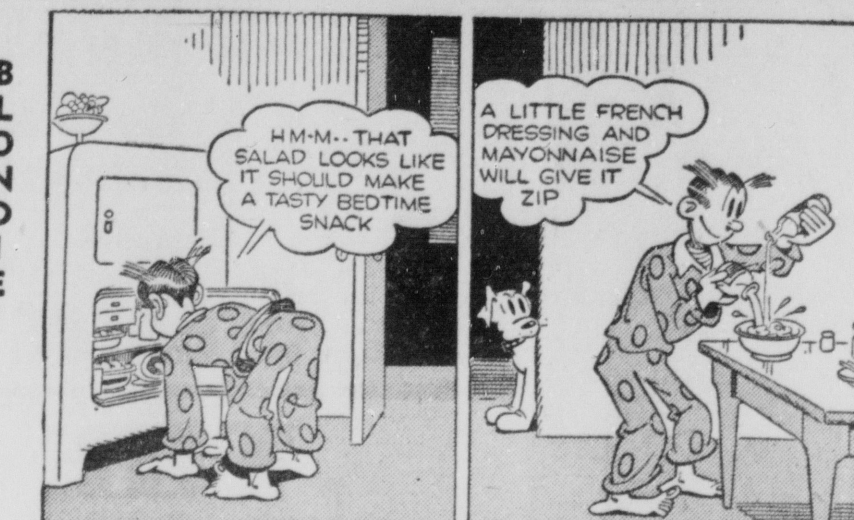

The local course manager registered a four-under-par 31 on his first nine holes, slipping to a six-over-par 41 on the last nine for the win.

Knight Key Grabs Main Trot

WESTBURY, N. Y., May 24 — Carolina Stock Farms' Knight Key, driven by Robert Walker, captured the featured Delaware Trot for a purse of $2,000 at Roosevelt Raceway last night.

The winner trailed Ballard Hanover to the top of the stretch and then came with a rush at the wire with Niblik to take the race by a length. The latter took second and the pace-setting Ballard Hanover faded to third.

Williamsport Grabs Lead In Softball League

Williamsport annexed the leadership of Circleville Night Softball League Monday in Ted Lewis Park when it handed Hoovers a 6-1 shellacking.

Both teams were tied for the loop lead going into the Monday fracas, each having three wins in as many starts.

The Williamsporters opened scoring in the first stanza with a single run, adding singles in each of the next two frames to post a 3-0 lead. Hoovers tallied a single marker in the last of the third inning to whittle the lead to a 3-1 count, but Williamsport clinched the encounter in the fifth frame with a brace of scores and in the sixth with another single.

Hoover's defeat was due primarily to four bobbles and its lack of hitting power for the night. Hoovers scratched only three hits in the game while Williamsport tagged twice that number.

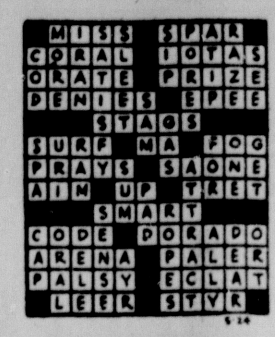

The game was called in the seventh inning because of rain. Line score of the tie-breaker follows:

Wmspt.	111	021	x-6 6 0
Hoovers	001	000	x-1 3 4

Sudan Grass Seen Lifesaver For Summer Dairymen

Late May Or June Seeding Brings Good August Stand

Sudan grass seeded in late May or early June can be a lifesaver to dairymen when summer drouth dries up pastures, according to Larry A. Best, Pickaway County agricultural agent.

"A few acres of Sudan grass can make a big difference in milk production during July and August," Best points out. "That is particularly true if bluegrass is down due to hot, dry weather, or if there is not a sufficient acreage of legume-grass crops to give dairy cows all the succulent, nutritious feed they need."

"Be sure the ground is well warmed before planting Sudan. About two weeks after corn planting is usually the best time."

"Sudan grass should not be grazed until it is 18 inches high. It will reach that height from seeding in six to seven weeks, with favorable growing weather.

"As a fast-growing, high-yielding annual grass, Sudan needs a good supply of readily available plant food. While its requirements for phosphorus are high, it needs other nutrients, too."

"AGRONOMISTS at various western state agricultural colleges and experiment stations recommend adding a complete fertilizer, carrying nitrogen, phosphorus and potash. In some cases, they recommend applications of 500 pounds of fertilizer per acre." The agent added:

"A firm, well-prepared seed bed and extra care in planting will pay off in thick, productive stands of grass. From 20 to 30 pounds of seed per acre will usually be sufficient. One thing is important. Don't put the seeds down too deep. Otherwise, you may get a thin stand."

"Seed should be covered lightly, not more than 1/4 to 1/2 of an inch. Cultivating both before and after seeding is recommended. Sudan may be seeded from the wheat hopper of the grain drill set at the 2- or 3- peck rate."

"Check the drill for seeding rate. If it will not sow this small amount, the seed may be diluted with cracked corn."

7 Memorial Hall Improvements Given In Report

Circleville's Memorial Hall was found in "good" condition recently when inspected by D.E. Jacoby, inspector with the state department of industrial relations.

According to Jacoby's report, the hall contains all good basic building materials, such as its masonry, woodwork, etc.

However, Jacoby filed a list of seven recommendations for the general improvement of the structure. He said loose plastering should be replaced, rest rooms should be marked, open wiring in the attic should be replaced with steel-covered wiring, provide a fire extinguisher, make all exit doors open outward. He suggested that "panic bolts" be installed on the doors.

He added that fuel should be stored in no other room than a fireproofed space and that space under the second floor stairs should not be used for storage.

'Elephant Boy' Claimed Father

HOLLYWOOD, May 24—Sabu, the elephant boy of the movies, was under order today to appear in court June 20 to show why he should not pay temporary support for an eight-months-old girl pending trial of a paternity suit.

The suit was filed late yesterday by the East Indian actor's one-time fiancée, Brenda Julier, a 23-year-old British ballet dancer who is now in London. She charges that Sabu is the father of her daughter and that he is refusing to support the child.

"What's fertility-level check planting, and why will it give me more corn and fewer nubbins?" a fellow asked me one day.

"Well, you know, an ordinary planter checks either 2, 3, or 4 kernels per hill—7,840, 11,760, or 15,680 kernels per acre. But suppose your soil's fertility level requires a kernel population somewhere between those figures?"

"Right now, I'm just out of luck," he said.

"No, you're not. With the new, high-speed, clutchless McCormick 'population planter', you can plant somewhere between those 7, 11, or 15 thousand. There are 18 different speeds to give you any in-between rate. And you can drill or hill-drop to any per-acre population, too."

"Sounds good to me... and I like the planting units in front, too, where I can watch them and the marker-track at the same time."

"To say nothing of handy fingertip Farmall Touch-Control to lift and lower the planters," I reminded him.

"From now on it's more corn and less nubbins for me, too. Order me a Farmall C corn planter right now!"

Lad Falls 5 Stories, Unhurt

NEW YORK, May 24 — Five-year-old Ralph Hernandez peeked into a dark dumb-waiter shaft, slipped, fell five stories—and walked away.

Deep piles of rubbish and paper cushioned Ralph's fall, in an abandoned building in Uptown New York where he romped with his playmates last night.

MORE CORN... Fewer Nubbins!

"What's fertility-level check planting, and why will it give me more corn and fewer nubbins?" a fellow asked me one day.

"Well, you know, an ordinary planter checks either 2, 3, or 4 kernels per hill—7,840, 11,760, or 15,680 kernels per acre. But suppose your soil's fertility level requires a kernel population somewhere between those figures?"

"Right now, I'm just out of luck," he said.

"No, you're not. With the new, high-speed, clutchless McCormick 'population planter', you can plant somewhere between those 7, 11, or 15 thousand. There are 18 different speeds to give you any in-between rate. And you can drill or hill-drop to any per-acre population, too."

"Sounds good to me... and I like the planting units in front, too where I can watch them and the marker-track at the same time."

"To say nothing of handy fingertip Farmall Touch-Control to lift and lower the planters," I reminded him.

"From now on it's more corn and less nubbins for me, too. Order me a Farmall C corn planter right now!"
